Nature Unpacked is the ultimate travelling companion for those visiting the southern African bush – whether for the first time or for the tenth. Much more than a field guide to the wildlife of the region, it provides insight into the behaviour and adaptation of the more common mammals, birds, reptiles, frogs, insects, spiders and scorpions that are found here. Identification of common trees and shrubs is made simple by way of easily accessible descriptions and close-up representative images.

FEATURES THAT MAKE THIS BOOK A MUST-HAVE:

- An all-in-one guide that covers the most common mammals, birds, reptiles, frogs, insects, spiders, scorpions, trees and flowering plants found in the region.
- More than 900 stunning photographs and reader-friendly text reveal what the creatures of the African bush do and why they do it.
- Information is interpretative rather than just dry facts typical of other field guides.
- The colourful and creative layout allows the reader to engage visually with the content.
- Other features include distribution maps, animal spoor, icons and Quick ID tables.

By using the Callfinder® (an optional extra), you can listen to the calls of mammals, birds, frogs and other animals, as well as the pronunciation of the scientific names of all the animals and plants covered in the book wherever you see this symbol .

ABOUT THE AUTHORS: Megan Emmett has worked in the wildlife industry for nearly two decades and has a deep appreciation for the kinds of information naturalists and travellers seek. She was the Senior Producer on 50|50 for nearly a decade and has written three wildlife books as well as a ten-part children's series on wild animals. Shem Compion is a naturalist and professional wildlife photographer and runs a specialised photo safari company which leads photo safaris throughout Africa.
